

COMMEMORATE WORK OF SALVATION ARMY

Special Services by Delegates to Interstate Conference.

At eight different churches throughout the city special services were held this morning commemorating the work which is being done by the Salvation Army, and delegates from the different branches of the army, who have gathered here for the Interstate Conference, delivered the addresses at these churches.

The principal service held this morning was the one at the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Sixth and C streets southwest, where the address was made by Col. William Peart, secretary of the Salvation Army, and Commander Miss Booth's chief assistant.

In the course of his speech on the work of the Army, which in this country and abroad, Colonel Peart drew the attention of the congregation to the poverty and misery in which the work started forty-six years ago in London, and the opposition which it had to face both there and in this country when it was transplanted thirty-one years ago here. He spoke of the spread of the work and the great good it has done, of the struggles and persecutions which it has had to face, and concluded with a definition of its work—"the application of common sense to common problems for the common good."

Other services were held at the following churches:

Luther Memorial, Fourteenth street and Vermont avenue northwest, Col. William McIntyre; Douglas Methodist Episcopal, Eleventh and H streets northeast, Lieut. Col. A. M. Damon; Immanuel Baptist, Sixteenth street and Colorado road, Lieut. Col. William H. Cox; Northminster Presbyterian, Eleventh street and Rhode Island avenue, Brig. Joseph Atkinson; United Brethren, Twelfth and E streets southeast, Major J. M. Richards; Calvary Methodist Episcopal, Colorado road, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, Major Edwy White; German Methodist Episcopal, Four-and-a-half and L streets southwest, Major M. E. Harter.

Great preparations are being made for the appearance of Commander Miss Booth at the public meeting to be held at the Belasco Theater at 8 o'clock this evening. This will be Miss Booth's only public appearance during her present visit to this city and it is expected that a large audience will be present to hear her. Special music will be furnished by a band from New York and Philadelphia.

Evening services, also commemorative of the work of the Salvation Army will be held in eight churches.

FATHER R. L. CARNE LEAVES LONG RECORD

Death in Alexandria Yesterday Recalls Years of Struggle.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU. ALEXANDRIA, VA., FEB. 18. Following a long illness Father Richard Libby Carne died at the home of his brother-in-law, Col. Theodore Ficklin, 714 Duke street, at 4:35 yesterday afternoon.

Father Carne was born in this city October 5, 1826, both of his parents being Alexandrians by birth. He received his earlier education from his mother, but at the age of nine years was sent to St. John's Academy, which, two years before, had been established by the Rev. John Smith, S. J., where he remained for seven years, leaving the institution to engage in the hardware business with his father at King and Fairfax streets.

At the close of the civil war, he was elected a member of the board of managers of the Washington Free School, established and endowed by George Washington, and shortly thereafter became the president of the board. When the public school system of Virginia was established, he was made superintendent of schools, both in the city and county, and served under successive appointments until 1886, when a separate superintendent was appointed for the county. Carne continuing as city superintendent until the administration of Governor Cameron, when he was superseded in office by his brother, William F. Carne. When Governor Lee was elected, however, he was reappointed to his former office, which he retained until 1885, when he was ordained a priest by the Rt. Rev. Van de Viver, Bishop of Richmond, at St. Mary's Church in this city. His first assignment was as assistant pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in Richmond, but after a short time he was transferred to Old Point Comfort College, where he served as chaplain. In 1897, due to declining health, he relinquished the position and returned to Alexandria. The degree of master of arts was conferred upon him at Georgetown University in 1888. Father Carne is survived by three sisters—Miss Mary M. Carne and Mrs. Theodore Ficklin, of this city, and Mrs. George F. Potter, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Nearly 300 members were present at the supper marking the opening of the convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement at the Young People's building last evening. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags, and banners bearing scriptural mottoes. However, the most striking of all was a banner extending the length of the hall, on which the Laymen's Missionary Movement was inscribed as the various churches during 1910. After supper Gardner L. Booth, master of ceremonies, introduced the Rev. Yutaka Manakuchi, of Tokyo, Japan, who spoke at some length of the work in his country. He was followed by the Rev. George E. T. Stevenson, chaplain of the United States navy, who told of his had seen of missions when the battle ship fleet made that memorable trip around the world. At the conclusion of the program, remarks were made by several visitors, among them the Rev. A. W. Rudasill, John W. Herndon, secretary of the convention, on behalf of the executive committee, offered a resolution, protesting at the size of the amounts already contributed by the Protestant churches, and suggesting that it be resolved that "we, the laymen of various churches, will make earnest and systematic effort to increase our gifts for the coming year for this cause, from $250 to $500, without in any way interfering with our gifts to other benevolent objects." This was unanimously agreed to.

After informal discussion, the meeting was brought to a close with singing and benediction by Rev. H. M. Candler. This evening, all churches will combine in a mass meeting at St. Paul's Church, and prominent speakers will be heard, bringing the convention to a termination.

Stephen Timney, who was sentenced to thirty days at the workhouse on a charge of habitual drunkenness, Friday, escaped from that institution early yesterday morning, making his way to Washington. The charge against him being a minor one, no effort will be made to take him into custody, unless he should return to Alexandria.

Judge Barley in corporation court yesterday afternoon, entered a decree in the case of T. J. Fannon and others against The Virginia Safe Deposit and Trust Corporation, granting to C. J. Rixey, president of the defendant corporation, and his counsel, full power to make examination of the books and papers. It is stipulated, however, that the examination made by others than C. J. Rixey and his counsel, it should be in the presence of the receiver, or some one designated by the court.
